Judge's ruling thwarts La Center's sewer expansion

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit ruled in favor of the Confederated Tribes of the Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians, which is a co-plaintiff in the case. The court ruled that the City of La Center's plan to expand its sewer system into the reservation was not consistent with federal law and violated the Indians' treaty rights.

Reflector moves into Old Town BG

The Reflector, a local newspaper, has moved into the old City Hall building in downtown Battle Ground, now known as the City Hall. The move is part of the city's efforts to revitalize its downtown area.

County hears comments on comp plan update

The Clark County Planning Commission held a public hearing to receive comments on the county's comprehensive community plan. Over 100 residents attended the meeting to voice their opinions on the plan's proposed changes.

See COMP Plan on Page 44

See Story on Page 12

In Your Paper This Week

Ridgefield celebrates Heritage Day & Oktoberfest, C15
The Reflector

Continued from page A3

transformed into a place that is better for our needs," said Laura Vinna, President and CEO of the Detroit Economic Growth Corporation.

"The Reflector," she added, "is a huge service, much bigger than we thought it was going to be, but it turned out beautifully. We are very excited about it."